Close contact with a presumed or confirmed COVID positive individual does not trigger any specific regulatory

Note: All CDC/federal U.S. government requirements regarding negative COVID tests prior to return to U.S. have been removed. There is now no testing or proof of vaccination requirement in order to board a return flight to the United States.

1. Faculty leaders whose programs utilize homestays must research possible quarantine housing (local hotel) in the event such action is necessary.
2. Programs with multiple faculty leaders should discuss what options and constraints exist in the event that one faculty leader experiences a COVID-related disruption. Relay this to OCP.
